

FIRST SELECTION STILL STANDS

Two Writers, at Least, Agree as to Merits of South Atlantic Eleven.

In making his selections for an All-South Atlantic football team and in placing the various teams in this division, J. Ed. Grillo, writing in the Washington Star, is very nearly in accord with the selections made in The Times-Dispatch.

In placing the teams there is but one point of divergence. Grillo places Davidson above the University of North Carolina. It is true that Davidson vanquished Carolina, but it is likewise true that Carolina had by far the harder schedule of the two teams, and there can be little doubt that when the season closed the Carolina team was by far the stronger of the two.

Grillo gives a harder schedule as his only reason for rating Georgetown over North Carolina. A. and M. If the argument holds in the one instance, it should hold in the other. Virginia, as was pointed out in this paper, was woefully weak this year. There is absolutely no question but that V. P. I. should have precedence over the Charlottesville organization. But the real question is, is it fair to give Carolina the credit of a victory over a team which was so weak?

While there are some radical differences in the All-South Atlantic team, it will be found that in the more important positions the two teams are one. Grillo gives Braxley the place over Gibbs, of V. P. I., at center, and does not put the Orange and Maroon team on his second team. Of course, his selection is open to argument, just as is the selection of this paper. It is these differences which lend interest to the selections. Hughes, of V. P. I., is given the preference by the Washington writer over Costello, of Georgetown, at quarterback, and the latter is not mentioned. There may be some righteousness in this stand, because Costello played in but three games, if memory serves aright.

However, take it by and large, the selections are very similar, and furnish evidence that favoritism plays no part in making selections, but that the men are picked with a view to their fitness for the place. Differences occur, but they are the differences which are natural and which are bound to occur in such an undertaking.

MAKING TRIP IN AUTO FROM NEW YORK TO SAN FRANCISCO

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Winston Salem, N. C., November 28.—With San Francisco as its destination, and bearing Christmas greetings from Mayor Gaynor, of New York, Mayor P. H. McCarty, of the Golden Gate City, the Ohio pathfinder, who left New York on November 23 to link the two coasts by a new Southern route, arrived here to-night, en route to Atlanta. The tour is under the direction of the American Automobile Association, whose representative in the car, E. L. Ferguson, is collecting the road data for free distribution to automobilists and good roads associations. Leaving Atlanta, the automobilists will cross Alabama, Mississippi and Arkansas, thence over the desert country, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, with a first stop in California at Los Angeles. They expect to reach San Francisco on Christmas Day, after covering approximately 5,000 miles in thirty-five days.

BAD BLOOD OFTEN INHERITED

Bad blood does not always come as the result of careless living, or indiscretions; it is a condition frequently inherited. Normal, healthy blood contains millions of tiny red corpuscles, which are the vitalizing and nourishing element of the circulation, their office being to provide every portion of the system with its necessary strength and nutriment. In weak, impure blood these corpuscles are lacking in numbers, and therefore the blood is not able to supply the proper amount of nourishment to the body. Bad blood manifests itself in many ways. With some it takes the form of skin diseases and eruptions, others become bilious and malarious, with sallow complexions, torpid liver, etc. Bad blood produces Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, and like troubles. Nothing is equal to S. S. S. as a remedy for bad blood; it is the greatest of all blood purifiers, possessing not only the qualities to cleanse and purify the blood, but composed of roots, herbs and barks that tone up every part of the system, and assist in the creation of blood nutriment. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Blood Poison and all other blood disorders. S. S. S. makes good blood, and good blood makes good health. Book on the blood free to all.

Shafts From Sportland

By G. MALBERT

Somebody on College Topics the official organ of the student body at the University of Virginia, got badly twisted as to directions in reporting the Thanksgiving game in the report of the game carried in the current issue. It is stated that the Virginia footers were on the west side of the park and the Carolina supporters on the east side. Any one at all familiar with the construction of the local park will see the error at once. The park runs east and west and at these two extremities is exceedingly narrow. Outside of these errors the college paper is nearly accurate.

Owner Bradley, of the Richmond team and President Williams, of the Virginia League, who have been at the meeting of the National League in New York December 15. It is expected that the local manager will at that time sign a manager for Richmond. The manager who is to learn who the manager will be and want him picked early so that he can have a fair chance to pick a team.

The grass diamond at the local park will be a reality. The grass is already on hand. Some trouble is being found in getting the proper soil in which to place the turf. It will be laid in the middle of the month, and when the Highlanders arrive in the spring they will be greeted with a regulation turf diamond.

Petersburg is looking for a park. No site has been selected, but the owners of the club have come to the conclusion that the park must be nearer the city if any money is to be made. Therefore the anxiety.

Danville reports that the franchise is not for sale. Still the explanation seems to strengthen the belief that the tobacco viceroy will not be sold when the season begins. It looks like the real thing in Portsmouth, and the probabilities are that Danville will be swamped for the truckers. It is a pity, for the Danville crowd has always proven to be good sports.

When it comes to picking an All-American football team it looks as if there will be little question as to Kilpatrick being the star to head the team. He clearly outclasses any man on any team in this country. On his side he is supreme, and he should be captain. He is fast, ready, knows "inside" football, and is heavy. With all of these qualifications few writers on the subject will overlook him.

Now is the time for basketball and indoor baseball. These columns will be open to such games. Just advise the office that a game is to be played and we will be glad to report it and give you notice for what you are doing.

In Jacksonville they are having some good racing. Twice Temple, the local handler of horses, who he owns, is down at the Florida track with his string of horses. He has gotten no money up to the present writing.

Out in Kentucky they are asking the National Racing Commission for the privilege to revise the rules. The idea is to make the distances greater and to increase the prize money. It is to be expected that the request will be granted.

Walter Eckersall, of the Chicago Tribune, has picked an All-American football team. He gives Michigan four places—Edmonds at right tackle, Borleske at right end, Benbrook at left guard, and Magidson at right half. The rest of the team is made up of players from other schools. Magidson deserves the place, and he will be on Walter Camp's All-American team, in all probability.

Haskell Indians have the distinction of being champions in one respect at least. On Saturday night the Haskell team won 13 points against the Aborigines, which makes the biggest score ever piled up against any school in the history of the game. There was no loss less than forty yards.

About time that some arrangements were being made for the big indoor track meet in Richmond. Such meets have always proven of interest and have drawn large crowds. It would be possible to hold such a meet with the use of the old or new Richmond. What's the matter with the University, Washington and Lee, Richmond College, V. M. I., V. P. I., Georgetown, George Washington, Washington and Lee, Hampden-Sydney and a few others that might be named, pulling off a meet in Richmond? The prep schools would be glad to join. Start something, somebody.

Nelson says that he started too soon. Many of us will think that he stayed too late. Best thing for the Hogback wonder to do is to frame up a little Jimmie Hetherington and see how many weeks he can get with any of the first-class vaudeville booking agents. A good thing for him to do would be "How I reached for Wolcott, but found myself shy."

Now that the bowlers have a clear field for some starting results on the alley. Heretofore there has always been something to detract from the tennis articles. Now they have the field all to themselves.

If there is to be any wrestling in Richmond this winter, those who are promoting the matches want to get into their heads that the people have stood for all the time for wrestling. Two managers, promoters and near-managers have been told that unless the mat artists are on the square and give the public what's right there will be nothing doing. These arranged for no-fall matches won't go. Put your men together and let them know that the best man is going to win, and everything will go smoothly. But otherwise, watch out for squalls.

time in early January. On the surface these men could give a mighty good exhibition and would prove a good drawing card. The only thing that is worrying me is to know just what they will do. I am now in communication with a party who will advise, and if the men decide to come to Richmond, take it from me that you will get the inside stuff. If the matches are to be real matches it will be printed, and if they are to be such as would prove you a sucker to go and spend your money, then that will be printed too, and printed before the matches take place.

All of you who have kept up with wrestling know Frank Gotch. You also know Jackschmidt. Westergard is a big husky, who is working with Gotch, while Burns and Olsen are topnotchers in their class. The trouble is, will they wrestle when they come to Richmond? A match was held in Bristol Thanksgiving and gave satisfaction. But that's not enough. We want the truth, and it is to be a real money-making exhibition or are the men going to sit at home and tounge? That's the question, and it will be decided to my satisfaction before anything is written further. The same holds true about the local wrestlers.

AMUSEMENTS.

Academy of Music—Dark.
Bijou—"The Turning Point," matinee and night.
Tublin—Vaudeville.

The Billing is Fine.

Despite the unusually attractive paper posted about the town, a comparatively small audience at the Bijou last night witnessed the performance of Preston Gibson's "The Turning Point," billed as "The Great American Comedy Drama."

The story of the play is altogether conventional, and the few bright lines and epigrams are lugged in by the ears and tossed out.

Harold Vosburgh, the leading man, has a splendid speaking voice, and gave quite a good performance, as did Mary E. Cunard, as the dashing widow—neither of them was responsible for their silly scene in the first act. The blame for that crude bit of farce lies with the playwright, or the stage manager, or both. George Sinclair drew a number of laughs from a portion of the audience by a burlesque impersonation of a clergyman; his conception of the part required him to move always with little mincing steps and to keep his hands on a level with his chest and only a few inches apart throughout the whole performance.

As to the leading woman, a certain sense of courtesy forbids any further mention than that her name is Louise C. Colvin.

Still, the burlesque clergyman amused some of the audience. Mr. Vosburgh and Miss Cunard did their best with what they had, and as has been mentioned, the billing of the show is fine.

STUDENTS CELEBRATE THANKSGIVING VICTORY

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Raleigh, N. C., November 28.—The victory of A. and M. over V. P. I. in the Thanksgiving Day's football game and the record of the Carolina farmers for the season in winning the college championship for the South Atlantic States was celebrated here to-night on Fayetteville Street. Special occasion lights, including the big "Welcome to Raleigh" electric sign, were lighted in honor of the occasion. The A. and M. ball team rode in a big band wagon, and a large canvas football on a frame was carried on the shoulders of students of the football team, bearing the inscription: "A. and M. V. P. I. 3." and "South Atlantic Champions."

A serpentine parade back and forth on Fayetteville Street by students and college band was a feature. Meredith College, Peace Institute and St. Mary's school were also visited.

Close Season for Deer
From Dec. 1 to Sept. 1
Because of an act passed by the last Legislature relating apell- bility to the counties of Brunswick, Sussex and Greensville, amending the closed season for deer, and because the act was not properly printed in the printed code, some confusion has arisen relative to the closed season for deer. The general law, to which there has been no amendment, prescribes that the closed season shall be from December 1 to September 1. The law relating to the counties already mentioned is because of inconsistencies in the title and act believed to be unconstitutional.

NO DEMAND FOR EXTRA SESSION

Long Ago Regarded as Certain That Governor Will Not Order It.

WOULD COST STATE $65,000

Legislature, if Convened, Would Have to Elect United States Senator.

In view of the statement that a petition had been circulated in Norfolk calling upon Governor Mann to summon a special session of the Legislature for the purpose of enacting a legalized primary law, some discussion of the matter was heard yesterday. Somewhat diligent search, however, failed to disclose a man in Richmond who was in favor of an extra session.

Certain it is that the element which has been calling for a party convention to frame a platform is utterly opposed to any extraordinary meeting of the General Assembly. It is equally certain that the other side is also in opposition. There is apparently no public demand whatever in Richmond for such action.

Those who discuss the case smile at the possibility of a session. The Governor will not call it, and it is pointed out that the members of the Legislature, most of whom are candidates for reelection, will never put themselves at this juncture in the position of signing a call which will put the taxpayers of the State to an expense of approximately $65,000.

"The Primary Law," asked "And for what purpose?" "What is the need for such a session?" "Where does the argument come in? Evidently it all arises because of the decision of some Norfolk judges that the section of the law providing punishment for illegal practices in primaries is unconstitutional."

"Now the Norfolk people who are agitating the matter, constituting, I am informed, a very small but very active number, either cannot or will not understand that the Supreme Court of the State has already said that the law is constitutional, and that the judges in Norfolk, whose integrity and ability no one doubts, were simply not informed. The Jackson Wise case, in Richmond, involved in the Norfolk decision, was under exactly the same circumstances. The Code, and not under any special law applicable to this city."

"In taking the case to the Supreme Court, counsel for Wise assigned the very point on which the Norfolk case was decided—that the action was invalid. When the Supreme Court refuses a writ of error it examines all grounds for complaint, and in this instance it must have looked into this matter. While there was no written opinion, the court made its appeal, and it is strongly by refusing to even hear argument on the appeal from Judge Witt."

Now, what is wanted in Norfolk? Evidently an extra session of the Legislature, to pass a law which will make a new election, when there is already a law good enough for the rest of the State.

Besides, Norfolk has a primary law which it can use if it has occasion to nominate city officers. It is not to be a law which will make a new election, when there is already a law good enough for the rest of the State.

It seems certain that if an extra session of the present Legislature were to be held now that body would be obliged to elect a United States Senator to succeed the late John W. Daniel. No one doubts that in such an event the man would be Senator Claude A. Swanson.

There is no provision for a party primary in the next session of the Legislature, whether regular or special, or whether the election of a Senator was specified in the call or not.

Of course, such a result would be satisfactory to the friends of Senator Swanson, who is certain of getting the office if the Legislature has an extra session, but it is presumed the people would prefer to vote on their man first.

It is also argued by the opponents that the primary is a Democratic matter, and that the 50,000 Republicans in the State might not see the justice in having to help pay the $65,000 necessary to hold a session to settle a matter entirely within the Democratic party and with which they have nothing to do.

Rechts Deules Statement.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Staunton, Va., November 28.—Hon. Edward Echols, a member of the Democratic State Central Committee, and also a member of the subcommittee to investigate the charges of fraud in the primary of the Second Congressional District, in an interview yesterday emphatically denied the statement made by Hon. Harry St. George Tucker in a letter to Governor Mann that the primary was a Democratic matter. He denies that any such recommendation for a legalized primary "a recommendation for a legalized primary" was made by the committee. He says, he says, but the committee thought that was going beyond the powers of the committee, even some who favor a legalized primary taking this view, and the matter was dropped without any formal action being taken on it.

No "inference," he said, from the direction indicated by Mr. Tucker, had anything to do with what the report should or should not contain, so far as he was concerned, as the report was prepared wholly by the members of the committee, passed on by them without calling in any outside help or advice.

The draft of the report prepared by the committee in Norfolk, which was taken to Richmond, was discarded, and a new, shorter report made, but it was done in order to get a unanimous report. The first report contained much of the evidence, but two members were unwilling to sign a report containing more than the actual findings of the committee, and the evidence in detail was omitted. Neither the prepared draft nor the second draft, he said, contained any reference to a legalized primary.

FIRE TRUCK DAMAGED

Street Car Passengers Say Fireman Failed to Plug Its Gey.
Car No. 524 of the Broad Street Line collided with a truck from No. 3 Engine House yesterday morning, and about $25 damage was inflicted on the truck. The accident occurred just as the truck bell did not ring, and Building Inspector Beck, who witnessed the accident from a window in the City Hall, stated that the truck driver failed to plug his gey.
